Aiki Homes Begins Construction on LEED Certified Home

Aiki Homes is proud to announce commencement of construction on Aiki's first LEED certified home in Fairhaven, attempting a GOLD rating. This home will be a model for sustainable development w/prime infill location & relative small size. The green features include passive and active solar, radiant heat, locally harvested woods, among many others. We look forward to showcasing this home to others interested in green home construction.

Smart Growth for Sustainable Communities Conference

Sustainable Connections held a Sustainable Land Use & Smart Growth conference early this month promoting sustainable development techniques that funnel growth into existing communities, produce more green buildings, and conserve natural resources. This event was a huge success bringing together government representatives, developers, builders, architects, to name a few. Highlighted was regional examples of smart growth developments & tools used by some jurisdictions to implement these developments.

Be on the look out for more green building & smart growth events sponsored by Sustainable Connections. <http://www.sconnect.org/greenbuilding/events>.
